This three story, Queen Anne Style, brick and brownstone townhouse is comprised of a central, gabled section, which is flanked by a conically-roofed cylindrical tower on one side, and by a projecting bay with gabled roof, perpendicular to the central section, on the other. From a base of rusticated brownstone, which is punctuated by deeply recessed basement windows, three courses of smooth stone rise and provide a ground for large carved panels which lie between each of the basement windows and the first floor lights.

Entrance is gained through the central portion, which is marked by a massive, projecting frame of smooth x stone with Welsh arch, with exaggerated keystone. Above this is a large fanlight which is flanked on either side by overlapping brownstone Corinthian pilasters with entablature supporting a stone rail which reaches to the second level. Second and third floors are of two bays, with single paned windows with large transoms. Frames are picked out in brownstone, and the third floor windows are capped with gabled roofs, as pseudo-dormers. The gable end of each dormer is marked with decorative shell carving.

The twoer is fenestrated with the same single-paned windows with large *transoms, and framed in brownstone. A spiky iron finial caps the tip of the slate-shingled roof. The gabled, single-bay end of the house features a large round-arched window on the first floor, which is divided by a central mullion, and which is framed by brownstone pilæters, repeating the decorative detail of the entranceway. A large tripartite window is at thesecond level, and at the third level is a double window-all are single-paned and transomed. The gable end is adorned with a highly decorative semi-circular panel of carved brownstone.

The compostion is banded together with string and belt courses of brownstone set in the brick, and by a corbel table at the belt course above the second level.
